We'll do this together in a FB live.

Draw a Treehouse

or the place you would like to take refuge for some restful time

Sidewalk Chalk

Challenge 1 - get a piece of chalk and colored paper. Cut the paper to 6" x 6" and glue it in the box below. Draw a sun and write out Judges 5:31 - find a translation you like. Keep your design simple so it doesn't get lost in chalk dust.

Challenge 2 - get some sidewalk chalk and draw this (or any very you choose) on your drive-way make it really big - I'm going to draw mine on the church parking lot.

Binding it all up

Now that we're closing out summer camp, let's bind our summer memories. Here are several options to bind your sketchnote summer camp fun. Which ever binding you choose you might want to add a stiff cardboard backing to provide some stability to your book.

1. Bind with ribbon, or string about 30" - need: hole punch, string and a tapestry needle. Punch the holes using the guide on the cover. Cut the ribbon to 30". Thread the tapestry needle or not if your ribbon will thread the holes. Starting in the middle hole thread the ribbon from front to back leaving an 8" tail on the front. Thread the ribbon through the bottom two holes and then thread it up the holes again all the way to the top. Thread it back down to the middle and tie the two ends in a knot and then a bow. Trim the ribbon.
2. Staple the book on the side
3. Get it bound at the office supply store. I laminated my cover- by the way.
4. Do you have another binding method? I would love it if you would share it with me!

Thanks for participating in the Sketchnote Summer Camp. If you were blessed, we'd be blessed if you would tell a friend about the Sketchnote Boss.
